ANNUAL MEETING MAY 18

Six Candidates Running For GHI Directorship

A total of six candidates will compete for the five openings on the board of directors at the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. annual meeting and election on Wednesday and Thursday, May 18 and 19. The annual meeting will begin at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Center School auditorium. Three incumbents — Donald Volk, Mary Clarke and Stephen Polaschik — are seeking reelection. The other three candidates are Margaret Hogensen, Henry Fisher and Wayne Williams.

Those who attend the Annual meeting will hear why GHI President James W. Smith, calls 1976 "a year of accomplishment." Furthermore those members will have an opportunity to hear about the plans for the rehabilitation of our structures and for the financing of them so that when votes are required at future meetings they will be able to cast an informed vote.

Balloting will begin Wednesday evening at an announced time after the candidates have been introduced. Members who wish to vote then will make a special trip to the registration desk to receive a paper ballot which they will then cast into the ballot box. The Wednesday evening voting will end at 11:30 p.m. Voting on Thursday, May 19, will be by machine in the GHI offices on Hamilton Place from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The five candidates receiving the highest vote will be elected for two-year terms. Each member is asked to vote for five candidates. Unlike city elections, no previous registration is needed.

Each family is entitled to only one voting card. A special color for proxy votes is used so that a check can readily be made on people voting two cards improperly.

Also to be elected is a three member Audit Committee for 1-year terms. The three candidates running are George Taube and incumbents Arthur Gropp and Bobbi McCarthy.

A nominations and elections committee consisting of five members will be elected for a 1-year term through nominations from the floor at the Wednesday night meeting.

Members unable to vote in person may designate a proxy to vote in their place, but such proxy forms must be filed with the GHI office by Friday, May 13.

Saturday's Lake Race

This Saturday's Fun Run starts at 9 a.m. at the Lake Park concession stand. The distances will probably be a quarter mile, a one mile, and a four mile run. Finishers in all events will receive certificates. No entry fees, no sign-ups. Just come prepared to run. For further information call 552-1415.

The D.C. Road Runners Clubs 10th Annual Patriot's Week two and five mile runs attracted over 90 runners to the Beltway Plaza Mall on Sat., April 23. The featured five mile race, which was sponsored by the Beltway Plaza Merchant's Association had Ed Dwyer of Upper Marlboro winning. There were eight Greenbelt finishers in the five mile race: Lee Johnson, Valerie Fisher, Mike Luftman, Roderick Stotler, Shalom Fisher, Milton Greenbaum, Bert Moore, and Ethelyn Bishop. All Greenbelt finishers received trophies.

Poetry Society Meeting

The Prince Georges Alpha chapter of the Maryland State Poetry Society will meet on Sun., May 15, 2:30-4:30 p.m. at 6231 Springhill Dr., Apt. 201 in Greenbelt. Howell McConnell will speak on "MINOR" Religious Poets. For further information call 277-5756.

NEED A RIDE TO THE POLLS?

One of the problems of GHI voting has been to provide transportation for those who are home during the day and have no way of getting to the polls, without having them subjected to electioneering or feel obligated to any particular candidate for a ride. The Nominations and Elections Committee is organizing a car pool consisting of cars of members who are not candidates. A car, carrying a sign "GHI Election Car" will leave the GHI offices on the hour every hour from 10:00 a.m. thru 3:00 p.m. on May 19. Each car will go North on Ridge from Hamilton to Research, down Research to Hillside, Hillside to Northway, Northway to Crescent and on Crescent to the West end and back on Ridge to the GHI offices. Members may hail the car as it comes along and get a ride to the polling place. The car will take them home when they have voted. This is only from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. and each car will be on the road only the few minutes necessary to drive the route, so be out there on the hour if you want a ride.

Quick Response Keeps Fire Damage Low

by Elaine Skolnik

Early detection and quick action by the Greenbelt Fire Department and Rescue Squad kept damage to a minimum in a fire at 53-G Ridge on Friday, May 6. No one was injured and damage is estimated at $1,000 to the structure and $100 in contents. The fire is under investigation by the Fire Marshall's office.

Neighbors saw smoke coming from vents in the attic about 6:15 p.m., just after a severe thunderstorm hit the area. Three engine and two truck companies (including Greenbelt) spent 1½ hours on the scene.

The fire was confined to 53-G Ridge and there appears to be minimal char to the attic rafters. There was slight water damage in 53-H and 53-K.

The Fire Dept. also responded to several calls during the severe wind storm over the weekend. An electrical cable at Greenbelt Junior High School fell down and set off the alarm bells. The department remained on the scene until PEP-CO repaired the damage.

Council Sees No Major Increase for Recreation

by Elaine Skolnik

A hold-the-line recreation budget with no significant increase in programs was reviewed by city council on May 4. In a 2½ hour work session, all members of council, the city manager, recreation director and several members of PRAB scrutinized item by item the $320,000 proposed recreation budget, of which $106,800 are revenues which do not affect the city tax rate. (Budget figures exclude the proposed 5% increase in city salaries.) The 1977/78 budget is about 6% above last year's appropriations. Considering only that portion of the budget that affects the tax rate, there is about a 3% increase over last year's comparable figures.

The increase takes into account ingrade salary increases, administrative and inflationary factors, new equipment for the Youth Center, $2,300, (desk and chair, portable stage and mats for weight room), security/safety lights, $2,000, at Springhill Lake Recreation Center which will illuminate the parking lot and building, and a $700 movie projector.

With the closing of Ridge Road Center early in 1978 because of the construction of the senior citizen housing project on the site, the center's budget was reduced by $1,900.

Recreation Director Hank Irving made a strong pitch to council for a second fulltime Recreation Assistant (not included in the proposed budget). He pointed out that such a move would assure that each of the city's recreation centers would have a professional on duty in the evenings and on weekends when more experienced personnel are needed, and also result in more efficient operation of the department.

Last year one full time recreation assistant was added and the new employee now divides her time between the SHL and Youth Centers. To offset partly the increased cost for the new position — $8,500 — Irving proposed to reduce the working hours of part-time center assistants. The proposed budget would then be increased by some $5,000.

Volunteer Aides

Irving hopes to institute a volunteer aide program in the recreation centers to provide supervisory assistance, control and leadership. In 1976/77, attendance at recreation programs was 270,000. Estimated for 1977/78 are 275,000 participants.

The recreation budget includes $13,000 for contributions to nine recreation organizations in the city. The organizations, which include Little League, Boys and Girls Club, Aquatic Boosters, etc. have requested a total of $16,502.

In addition, the city proposes to allow $2,490 for fireworks, $1,500 Labor Day, $3,100 for program leaders and $4,200 for Public Works labor for the Labor Day Festival, July 4 fireworks, etc.

Council appeared dubious about a proposal that would replace the pool's basketroom check system with coin lockers and self-service unattended basket racks. The lockers would cost $3,090 but estimated annual savings could be about $2,400.

The major concerns were those of vandalism and thefts, the nuisance of lost keys and unattended locker rooms. An alternative suggested was that swimmers bring their own locks.

Pool Expenses

Estimated maintenance and repair of the pool and its structures are down by $1,900. Major repairs were made to the pool deck and edge of the pool during the current fiscal year. However, the budget purposes a capital outlay expense of $600 for new lights on the existing poles for safer night-time swimming as required by the county. Council members were interested in providing enough additional lighting so that the handball court and walk way could be properly illuminated.

With new fees, the pool operation will be nearly self-supporting, including the payment of bond principal and interest on the 1963 pool reconstruction project.

Council directed the city manager to try to approximate the best he could how much of the park services went into maintaining the fields for the adult leagues.

Tennis

The matter of tennis sign-up systems was also discussed. The city could go with the present central registration system where persons may sign up two hours before playing. Or sign-ups could be on a first-come, first-served basis. The Greenbelt Tennis Association suggested that there be a monitor on duty evenings and weekends. Irving recommends that the system of signing in at a central location, which was implemented at the Braden Field Tennis Courts in March, merited a continued period of review before considering a fee and monitor program.

Proposed is the development of two playgrounds in original Greenbelt. They would be financed with the county's community development grant funds.

Also proposed, using revenue sharing funds, are improvements to the Youth Center's original building (roof maintenance, bathroom fixtures and partitions), resurfacing of Lakecrest and Braden Field tennis courts and providing ballfield materials for the landfill and North End school.

Open House at Fire House

There will be an Open House at the Greenbelt Fire House on Sat., May 14 from 11 a.m. - 3 p.m. in observance of Fire Service Recognition Day. All Greenbelters are urged to attend.

Change Occupancy Restrictions Now!

To the Editor:

Greenbelt Homes members should be grateful for the unintended revelations in the letters of two former GHI board of directors in the May 5 issue, even despite the wrong assumptions on which they are based in part and the red herrings they seek to drag across the trail. I refer to the letters of Janet James and Charlie Schwan, of course.

Janet says, "with respect to your mythical sheik (April 21 News Review.)" She's saying I fabricated the man. The News Review editors have been given a xerox copy of the April 12, 1977 Wall Street Journal story (pp.1, 19) I relied on; the man is no myth.

Janet assumed the man is a Muslim sheik, and since she knows that the Koran bans having more than four wives (at a time) she just assumed the man I wrote about is a myth. Well, I never had a hand in writing those bylaws, so I didn't know about the 4-wives limit in the Koran. But nowhere in my letter, nor in the Wall Street Journal article was it said he's a sheik or a Muslim. It does say that "The King, 77-year-old Sobhuza II . . . he has many wives and many children." It says further that a Swaziland official says, "Nobody knows and nobody asks." how many. "Even royalty has a right to privacy."

In Swaziland, they think even royalty have a right to privacy. In GHI, the board of directors has spent many hours debating what degree of relationship to the GHI member is necessary before a person can stay in a member's home over 30 days. You'd think they have more important problems to occupy their time. Janet's humorous query, whether we'll "need a legal opinion as to whether a concubine is a relative?" is indicative of the kind of time-wasting nosy-parkerism the board has been capable of.

She's right about the importance of the issue of power in the hands of appointed officials, but that goes for elected ones, too. GHI President Jim Smith's wrathful outcry that if the county human relations commission is upheld GHI will lose control over its admission policy, in his annual GHI report, really indicates that maybe our officials need to have less power. Anyone, anyone, who controls the access to other people's necessities—jobs, housing, food, health care, public accommodations, education, etc.—needs to be very careful that people are not denied their needs for reasons of prejudice—and there need to be social compulsions to assure this, alas.

Charlie Schwan's letter correctly indicated that I disagree with the way the GHI board is interpreting the membership contract. But he's wrong when he seems to be depicting me as opposing previous boards' actions in leasing to dentists or doctors or the grocery store, or in the long-ago decision to permit a member whose job requires him to leave town for a year or even two years to sublet, or in selling to single persons.

He's dangerously and disingenuously wrong — or forgetful — in his defense of the board's action in selling the units occupied by the nuns, as if I every opposed that sale, because he might cause some unknowing persons to think I'm attacking their religious workers. Charlie implies that that board decision was done under bylaws Art. III, Sec. 1. I know that language; I helped write those bylaws.

The convent was part of GHI long before I came to Greenbelt in 1953, but the bylaws language he

Mishkan Torah Notes

Too Many People

To the Editor:

In your editorial last week you came out clearly in favor of people in our Lake Park. I certainly do agree that the park exists for people to enjoy. But in arguing for access for all who come, you overlooked the other part of your definition — "usually in a natural state". There comes a point, even without congestion of cars, beer cans and trash, when a park can wear out from overuse.

Some of us may remember the Federal Government's "Mission 66," designed to get more people to the National Parks. Use of the parks increased in some cases to the point where the natural setting of the park that the people had gone to enjoy was endangered. The government's reaction was to limit access by several means: now you have to take a bus to get into Yosemite Valley; enforced road blocks are set up two miles from a beautiful mountain lake near Denver when its small parking lots (which could easily be enlarged) are filled up; some favorite federal camping areas are even closed to the public every few years while the area rejuvenates itself. Even the Greenbelt Federal Park regulates use by banning parking along the roads. These are not rules capriciously designed to keep people out. They are imposed so that the quality of having an enjoyable experience in the natural setting of the park doesn't go down for everyone.

Coney Island and Marshall Hall are "for people . . . for recreation and enjoyment." Our Lake Park is too, but it is something more — hopefully a tranquil place to enjoy the outdoors and unwind. In order to keep it that way we must recognize that there are limits to the amount of wear and tear and therefore the number of people and types of activities that can be accommodated.

Werner M. Neupert

quotes, which affords membership to religious or other institutions," wasn't there until Charlie (as bylaws chairman), and I (as bylaws committee member) and a few other bylaws members, proposed it in 1963 (over 10 years later) and it was adopted.

I listed all those examples of non-families in my previous letters not to oppose them but to show that in the past it probably wasn't so much the issue of "immediate families" which justified the policy and the contract language. It was the widespread, and I believe correct, desire of Greenbelters to keep outside realty or other private interests from getting ownership of the GHI housing project. Those non-family sales and leases were not inconsistent with that desire. They were inconsistent with the "family" theory.

Charlie's contribution to this debate is that of course the board can change the strained interpretation it places on the contract; it can issue contracts which are differently worded. Even now they make exceptions, but why make people come pleading to them for such exceptions?

Why must we wait for a court to decide? People are discriminated against now.

Mat Amberg

Uninformed

To the Editor:

Having recently sold our unit in Greenbelt and having undergone a great deal of inconvenience and financial loss in the process, we feel it necessary to write this letter so that other members of GHI intending to sell their units will not undergo the same ordeal.

Being subject to the appraisal procedure of Twin Pines, which defies rational economic reasoning, is the least of the difficulties one faces . . . The cooperation, or should we say lack of it, one receives from the "cooperative" management of GHI creates a far greater hardship.

On two occasions . . . we have suffered economic losses in the hundreds of dollars. The most recent deals with the requirement that the electrical service to all units be increased to at least 100 amps . . . In our case, which we feel is the common occurrence, the unit had been appraised and listed, thus we had to incur the entire cost of the electrical repairs without receiving any of the benefit from the work performed. . .

The management of GHI has been aware of the need to increase the electrical service to the units for some time, but has not informed the membership . . . until the time of sale when it becomes a forced out-of-pocket expense. Such a withholding of information should not be tolerated.

Except for the problems we encountered with the management of GHI, we can emphatically say that living in Greenbelt was a wonderful experience for us.

Residents of Greenbelt and members of GHI, we can only ask you to take the required actions to make sure you become properly informed, and maintain a management that acts in your interests not in their own. Make Greenbelt even more so, "a beautiful place to live".

Greenbelt Concert Band

For 35 years the Greenbelt Concert Band has provided music in the city and throughout the county. From a small drum and bugle group which was formed in 1942, the organization has grown into a major community band which provides music for entertainment, patriotic occasions, and community groups.

The band averages 15 concerts each year. This is not a small feat, considering it is only able to rehearse two hours per week as a group. In the process of improving the musical ability of the band, John DelHomme, the conductor, has rehearsals for small sections of the band every Sunday morning in the Youth Center.

DelHomme, who has rounded out 50 years in the professional music field, is trying to perpetuate the type of music that concert bands should play, such as the Bands of John Phillip Sousa, The Detroit Concert band, The Goldman Band, Pat Conway and others of a bygone era. It is a full time job to conduct and run a band of this type. The conductor is very grateful for the excellent cooperation he receives from the community, city, band members and the Recreation Department.

To be a member of the band, one should be an experienced player or someone who has had playing experience with a high school, college or concert band. There are no auditions, but the conductor will interview prospective players. Anyone interested please call 552-1444 for an interview.

My Side . . . of the Budget Story

by Helen Geller

My dear friend Elaine Skolnik did a number on me.

"I have so much trouble understanding budgets" she said, "and I can't find anyone else to do it. How about helping me write the story of the recreation budget hearing?"

Can you imagine anyone falling for a line like that? But I did only too late remembering some important things such as: I hate to write (I owe letters to people on four continents); I associate the word "budget" with the flowering of Harvey's language every time he discovers that my checkbook and the bank statement don't even have a nodding acquaintance and most important of all, the News Review is so desperate for reporters, editors, etc., if you can find your way to the pencil sharpener you're hired.

On the appointed evening we showed up at Council chambers where I promptly endeared myself to Councilman Richard Castaldi by stopping him in mid-air as he started to light up a cigarette. (I'm allergic to smoke, I sweetly explained.)

Things went downhill from then on. As everyone batted figures back and forth, I idly wondered where Hank Irving would find half a recreation assistant (It turned out half-time at each center) Fighting an overwhelming desire to curl up under the table, (I perked up a bit during a lively discussion on the merits of lockers vs. baskets,) I foggily wondered if I would make it to the end, and was saved by of all things—my nose which was frantically signalling that it was allergic to something in the room and if I didn't get out in a hurry I would have a two day headache. As a reporter I had covered myself with glory.

So please, will some bright government type or some bright college type — will any type at all — please volunteer to save the honor of the News Review and agree to cover the next budget hearing. Just show up at the N.R. office Tuesday night and find your way to the pencil sharpener. It's your patriotic duty.

CARES Budget Up Slightly

by Sandra Barnes

Going into its fifth year of operation, Greenbelt CARES, the city's youth counseling and service organization, seems to have become an accepted part of the community, no longer fighting for its very existence in the city budget. That was the sentiment expressed by the various councilmen at the city's work session on the CARES budget on Monday, May 9.

The self-composed CARES staff met no challenges to their budget which receives 75% funding from the Department of Juvenile Services (DJS) and 25% funding from the city. Last year, the CARES budget was $65,500. This year, the budget calls for an expenditure of $67,761 with 40,461 provided by DJS and $27,300 in matching funds by the city. The major increases are in salaries, insurance, and transportation accompanied by decreases in employee benefits and equipment purchases.

The CARES program has gone from largely group counseling of families, to individual counseling on a one-to-one basis with trained workers in its Wednesday evening sessions.

While the council members praised CARES for its impact on the community, Dr. Leo Walder, who provides the staff with professional expertise, noted that their follow-up procedures have not been very good and that was one aspect of the program they hoped to improve. They have no accurate figures on how families or individuals fared after they left the CARES counseling program.

CARES estimates that it will handle about 285 youngsters in the formal counseling sessions in the coming fiscal year; last year 270 were counseled. In addition to counseling, CARES will continue its clothing exchange, tutoring program and job placement program for young people.

In addition, CARES hopes to improve its training program for Wednesday evening volunteer counselors by inviting at least five guest professionals to observe and comment on the counseling program and other related activities. It also hopes to establish a program to reduce the reliance upon outside consultants for evaluation services and to establish methodology for measuring cost/effectiveness of counseling program as compared to other forms of counseling available. In addition, CARES expects to measure the effectiveness of individual juvenile counselors.

Over the past year, CARES has initiated a 24-hour Helpline service which allows a troubled youngster to call someone for help and remain anonymous if he or she wishes. CARES supervises an after-school program in the basement of its Ridge Road office and expects to initiate and improve other programs in the coming year.

State Initiates Child Innoculation Program

Because only 58% of Maryland's two year olds have been inoculated against preventable childhood diseases the state has launched a campaign to arouse public concern. A preliminary study indicates an intolerably low statewide level of two-year olds completely protected against such diseases as polio, measles, rubella, mumps, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus. A completed series of primary shots to give two year old children protection includes four shots against diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, four polio shots and one shot each against measles, rubella and mumps.

The state hopes to (1) within 30 months — by the fall of 1979 — immunize thousands of children who today are inadequately protected against all preventable childhood diseases, raising completed immunization levels for preschoolers to above 90% and (2) establish a permanent system to provide comprehensive immunization services to the thousands of children born in Maryland each year.

In an effort to reach thousands of parents, a Sugar Ray Leonard Poster Contest, named after Maryland's Olympic Gold Medal winner, will be conducted in all State day care, nursery schools, head start and primary school levels. Parents will get a chance to read the immunization data on the poster when children bring it home from school.

Programs for Greenbelt Seniors At Rec. Center

by Linda Orenstein

Two programs sponsored by the Division on Aging of Prince Georges County have been held at the Greenbelt Recreation Center.

For the second year a tax preparation program has been offered. This program met on Tuesdays, beginning in January and concluded before April 15. Anyone over the age of fifty-five was eligible to participate. Tax preparation sessions were provided on an appointment basis with absolutely no walk-in consultations. Necessary tax forms were provided by the County, with only personal records, (stubs, receipts etc.) being required of participants. An average of four to five people attended the Tues. appointments.

The second and ongoing program sponsored by the Division on Aging is held on a drop-in basis at the Recreation Center from 10-2 p.m. on Wednesdays. This program, headed by Ursula Nogic, provides counseling and referral services to senior citizens and to middle-aged or young people having problems with or relating to senior citizens who may be relatives or friends. Charles Helwig, himself a senior Citizen, is a Senior Counselor Aide assigned to the Greenbelt community. He was trained through the University of Maryland Counseling Department in an eight-week course directed by Dr. Nancy Schlosberg, which concentrated on counseling skills and observation sessions.

Helwig is available to render assistance in the form of resource information, referral to county agencies for county services, or simply to talk about various problems. He does not give formal counseling, but will help with completion of forms or give reassurance and support to those who need to be guided to the proper agencies. Confidentiality of all discussions is stressed, and the Recreation Center provides a familiar yet private meeting place for seniors to come to.

This referral and information service is one of eight sponsored by the Division on Aging in P.G. County. Helwig has spoken to two groups in Greenbelt — the county senior group, which meets on Mondays, and the Greenbelt Golden Age Club, which meets at the Recreation Center on Wednesdays, to advise them of his services.

He states that response to the program in Greenbelt has been good and feels that this due to the great civic sense of responsibility toward others. He also sees a good deal of sensitivity in Greenbelt, as a community, toward the problems of people of all ages.

Helwig is very enthusiastic about this program and would like to see transportation and shopping services operational in Greenbelt. He envisions a lunchtime "drop-in" meal program which would provide a good hot meal with little financial strain on those attending.

Charles Helwig sees himself as a link providing information as to numbers to call and will follow up on the solution of problems. He recommends the Prince Georges Senior Citizen newspaper as a source of information. He may be reached at 474-4980, although he prefers face-to-face discussions.

Anyone in Greenbelt aware of transportation facilities or who could communicate pertinent community activities or available services, is asked to contact Helwig at the Recreation Center.

Police Blotter

The department was busy last week with personnel matters. The vacancy created when Michael Janney left has been filled with the employment of Michael S. Ricucci from Hyattsville. He will begin work on May 8. Ricucci comes highly recommended by Hyattsville City Police where he was employed as a dispatcher. He will shortly graduate from Maryland University with a degree in Law Enforcement. His employment will bring the department to its total authorized strength of 20 uniformed officers.

However, the department will not stay at full strength very long, as Sgt. Thomas VanValkenburgh has submitted his resignation effective May 21.

He has accepted a post with New Mexico State Police as a Crime Scene Specialist. Sgt. VanValkenburgh, a 10 year veteran of Greenbelt's force, will be missed especially for his work with City youths. He received his Bachelor of Science Degree from the University of Maryland this week. In an effort to quickly fill the vacancy, background investigations will be conducted on several applicants who took examinations recently.

Word was received this week by the department that a former member has been honored by the State Police. William Vogel, who was with the department for over three years, has been chosen Trooper of the Year for the second time at the Forestville Barracks of Maryland State Police and Trooper of the Year for the entire State.

Officers Charles Watkins, Michael Craddock and M. Douglas Sappington graduated on May 6 from the Basic Entrance Level Training Class that was conducted at the Sparrows Point Police Academy in Baltimore for the past ten weeks. The three officers have consistently remained at the top of the class throughout the course. City manager Giese, Chief Lane and Lt. Krob attended graduation exercises held at the Academy. The officers are now back on street duty which will help alleviate manpower shortages.

G.H.I. General Meeting May 18 — Election Continues May 19

GREENBELT IS SPECIAL

We live in Greenbelt because it is a special place — different from the conventional suburban community. My efforts in GHI have been directed toward making sure we don't lose the special things that make up GHI. Two conditions require attention — environmental and economic.

The environment is one of the things which makes Greenbelt unique. The attractive lake, the parks and open spaces, the remarkable inner walkways and underpasses, the mature trees, the sturdily-built homes; all set us apart from other communities. These must be preserved.

Economically, Greenbelt is also special because its moderately priced homes allow people of various occupations and incomes to live together in the same community. However, our homes, built in the thirties and forties, require special attention to maintain them in sound condition while keeping monthly charges as low as possible.

These are the goals toward which I will continue to work if elected.

An Open Letter to GHI Members

At its 1974 Annual Meeting, GHI membership instructed the Board of Directors to prepare a long range study of needs. The Board appointed the Long Range Planning Committee to assist in this process. This Committee has developed initial estimates of needs and costs, and established a process of further refinement. Each GHI member should read thoroughly the Committee's report that will be distributed next week. Please remember that each item discussed in the report is subject to further refinement, based on additional cost/benefit analysis. Several important steps in the review process have been, and will continue to be:

1. Determination of alternative approaches that provide needed repairs and improvements.
2. Comparison of the costs of alternatives, including the cost of maintenance of existing conditions, with no changes.
3. Design of a realistic financial plan.

The initial decision of the membership to require a long range plan was a wise one, and I strongly recommend that each individual member follow the course of this effort as it begins to take shape over the next few years.

GREENBELT NEWS REVIEW

Greenbelt Grab-bag ... Our Neighbors

by Punchin' Judy

Inspiration is a wonderful thing - except when it doesn't hit you. Here I sit, and across from me is the typewriter. It is an electric one and I turn on the motor. It whirs and there is a slight rattle. I wish there were an "on" switch for inspiration. I turn off the motor on the typewriter, because we mustn't waste electricity, must we?

The cockroach Archie did a lot to help one writer. But somehow there is never a cockroach around when you need one. Goodness knows, they are always there when you don't want them. Like when your sister-in-law comes to visit - the one with the white gloves.

Archie the cockroach had a friend Mehitabel who was a cat. I have two cats, but do they help me write a story? They do not. They lie there with chins tucked on paws and think deep feline thoughts. The dog from next door is paying her daily visit, but she doesn't even want me to write a story. She just wants me to let her lick the cat food dish. She has nothing against the News Review, though. She barks at the carrier just as much as she does at the kids who deliver the other papers.

Then, too, the phone keeps ringing. Child #1 calls to remind me of something I must do for him at 8:30. Child #2 phones to say I better buy ingredients for baking cookies. Child #3 calls to ask if I thought of something to write about. That's funny, I don't even have three children.

This is clearly no use. Tonight I simply cannot think of a column. I'm sorry - I'll try to do better next week.

Elaine Skolnik - 474-6060

Dora Friedman Honored At Testimonial Dinner

by Elaine Skolnik

A testimonial dinner for longtime resident Dora Friedman of 10 Southway Road, was given at the Mishkan Torah on March 6. Eighty years young, Mrs. Friedman was described as "a woman who has a quiet demeanor, whose many years of service to her congregation and community has endeared her to both young and old."

Because of her warmth and empathy for children, "The Dora Friedman Endowment Fund for the Continuation of Hebrew Education" was established in her honor at Twin Pines. Over the years Mrs. Friedman's home has been a haven for theological students and, at times, for young people who have suffered adversities in their lives.

Mrs. Friedman, her late husband Charles, and their three daughters, Shirley, Sonya and Faye were one of Greenbelt's first families, having arrived in October 1937. Besides her synagogue activities she worked for many years in the Greenbelt Variety store which was located in what is now Ben Franklin, was active in the Eastern Star, PTA, the Greenbelt Golden Age Club and other organizations.

One of the evenings highlights was the Mishkan Torah Player's satiric comedy "Grandma and the Hot Line," directed and written by Marlene Mollerick. The main theme was that age is no barrier to community involvement. Rabbi Kenneth Berger and Cantor Donald Weisman conducted a service at the beginning of the program and Jan Lieberman, a balladeer, sang a musical tribute to the guest of honor.

In appreciation for her years of devotion to the Mishkan Torah, the Sisterhood presented a pendant to Mrs. Friedman.
